Strategic Partnerships, Joint Venture and Consortia Development Training Course

Introduction

Introduction

The Post COVID 19 Business Environment demands a holistic, comprehensive and lateral thinking perspective of businesses that value the retention of a distinctive advantage in an exceptionally competitive arena. This highlights the critical necessity to cultivate and sustain strategic partnerships, joint ventures and consortia that will assist businesses in the retention of said advantage. Strategic partnerships have mutual benefits and can lead to long-term profits.

How do you develop Strategic Partnerships? Strategic partnerships occur when two businesses combine forces to increase and expand their brand reach. Co-branding opportunities add value to your company, spreads brand awareness and builds brand trust.

It has become increasingly important to discover innovative ways for businesses to stay at the top of their industry, conduct business development, marketing, operate more effectively and efficiently and expand into an ever-changing marketplace. Developing key relationships has become an ever-increasingly more intentional and strategic way for businesses to grow.

Strategic relationships permit businesses to cross-promote, build on each other's strengths, fill in gaps in areas of growth and development, share intelligence, attract new customers and expand business offerings to existing customers. A joint venture provides an additional opportunity for flexibility, adaptation and mutual augmentation of key industry-specific attributes.

It also Broadens service offerings, expands brand awareness and customer base through cross-marketing. They are more competitive together than as individuals and there is the additional opportunity to expand to new markets as the partnership grows.

The ultimate goal of this "Strategic Partnership, Joint Venture and Consortia Development Course" is to cultivate an intrinsic conceptualization of the critical necessity of initiating and sustaining mutually beneficial industry partnerships in a post-COVID 19 Business environment with a view to retaining strategic advantage.

Understanding the nexus between and among these three integral components will enhance your holistic and comprehensive analysis of how businesses can beneficially augment each other for mutual advantage.
