Construction Law for Non-Lawyers Training Course

Introduction

Engineers and project managers make decisions every day that have legal consequences: issuing instructions, approving variations, accepting delays or certifying payments. Without basic legal knowledge, they can unintentionally weaken their organisation's position.

This course explains the legal principles that matter most on construction projects, including contract formation, obligations, variations, delays, defects, liability and disputes, in practical, non-technical language with examples from the Gulf.

Learning Objectives

By the end of this course, participants will be able to:

- Understand how construction contracts are formed and interpreted
- Recognise the legal effect of instructions, notices and approvals
- Manage variations, delays and defects with legal awareness
- Understand liability, insurance and decennial liability
- Keep records that protect your position
- Know when and how disputes are resolved

Training Methodology

This course combines short expert presentations with practical exercises, case studies from the Gulf and international organisations, group discussions and work with real templates and tools. Participants are encouraged to bring examples from their own work so that the learning can be applied immediately.

Participants discuss practical project scenarios and analyse the legal effect of everyday site decisions.

Benefits for Your Organisation

- Fewer avoidable legal mistakes on projects
- Stronger contractual positions and records
- Better cooperation between technical and legal teams
- Reduced dispute costs

Benefits for You

- Practical legal awareness for project roles
- Confidence handling notices and instructions
- Understanding of liability and risk
- Better communication with lawyers
